

Ish the Fish swims along the Shore

© Copyright 2013 – Reg Down

All rights reserved. No part of this publication, in part or in whole may be reproduced, transmitted or utilized in any form, without the permission of the author, except for brief quotations in critical articles and reviews.

Ish the Fish swam along the shore. The beach was sandy, the sand was white, and the waves were waving.

Two boys plunged into the surf. They swam about shouting, enjoying the blue.

A rogue wave came crashing! Leaping and dashing it swept the boys out to sea.

“Help!” cried the boys. “Help! Help!”

Ish the Fish didn’t hesitate. Ish the Fish didn’t waver. He swished his tail and sent one back to land; he opened his mouth and ate the other.

Gulp.

O, who’s sitting high in the mango tree now?!