

A thousand black-eyed Babes

Reg Down
© Copyright 2015

All rights reserved. No part of this publication, in part or in whole may be reproduced, transmitted or utilized in any form, without the permission of the author, except for brief quotations in critical articles and reviews.

A thousand
black-eyed babes;
heads with tails
flick and flail;
bandy legs
slow to grow;
coats of tweed,
we live in reeds,
we sing now high,
now low.

Who are we?

Spawn into tadpoles into frogs.